Bring on safety awareness

Bring on an impeccable safety record

Bring on specialist safety & risk management

Bring on tomorrow

Nothing is more valuable to our insureds than an impeccable safety record. We are committed to providing our clients with a solid foundation on which they can build their own safety and operational risk programmes.

We have dedicated aerospace loss control experts who specialise in key areas of aerospace safety including; flight operations, aircraft maintenance, fixed base operations, hangars, facilities, ground vehicle operations, airports and employee safety.

Our loss control team offers complimentary risk management consultancy. They undertake surveys and reviews to provide our clients with recommendations that focus specifically on their operation. We also offer aerospace non-technical skills training.

Every safety management system (SMS) should provide an organisation with the framework to;

- Operate safely
- Show who is accountable for risk management
- Provide safety assurance
- Promote safety awareness

Our safety and loss control team work with our insureds to make the most of their own systems, and the way in which risk is managed throughout the organisation.

Our services are supported by industry-leading safety and loss control methods that range from detailed risks assessments and document manual reviews to safety programme management mentoring and training. Our experts provide:

- Loss control surveys – Free on-site reviews across various operational aspects of our insured's business. The post-review report contains practical recommendations, and solutions that are proven within the aerospace industry
- Detailed safety and loss control service for flight operations, aircraft maintenance, dispatch and ramp
- Education on methods of detecting hazards and liability exposures
- Safety culture surveys to compare management and employee views
- Facilitation of safety committee meetings
- Assistance in developing effective safety programmes and refining accident investigations using root cause analysis

- Internal audit programme development
- Training to key employees, managers and supervisors
- A resource library covering key risk management topics including employee safety, human factors, ergonomics and maintenance operations
- The sharing of best practice with similar operations
- Ongoing safety and loss control services on request.

Bring on the expertise...

By partnering with our insureds, we can work together to provide the best advice and service for their individual operation.
